MOUNT PLEASANT HAS RECRUITED FIVE COMPANIES

Enviably Record for Old Town in Annals of the Nation.

BEGAN WITH THE CIVIL WAR

Latest Command, Company E, Will Receive Federal Recognition Thursday Evening, 104 Men Having Been Recruited for the National Guard.

Special to The Courier.
MOUNT PLEASANT, June 28.—With federal recognition on Thursday evening of Mount Pleasant's 104 men who have enlisted in Company E, Mount Pleasant will again have a command up to the proper quota of that armed militia. This will make the town's fifth military company.
At the beginning of the Civil War Mount Pleasant sent a company which was taken in road wagons to Greensburg and from there to the front in box cars. This company was known as Company "E".
With the coming of the National Guard, the oldest established town in this vicinity whose first name was "Hollowtown," gave her quota of men to become members of some fighting group. They were made a part of the Tenth regiment and the Company E men of the "Fighting Tenth" made history during the Spanish War.

After peace had come and a company was again to be established here the town very readily had her quota of men to fill the ranks to fill the ranks. With the call for service in the World War the town had an excellent company of men, E of the 110th Infantry, and following the return of these men and announcement of the location of another company here, despite the fact that the census report shows a gain of but 50 inhabitants since 1910, the town very readily had over 100 men who volunteered to become members of the new Company E, so long a fighting unit.
Only one smoker was held to interest the boys. Three excellent officers have been chosen, Captain John Burkholder, First Lieutenant William Spinko, and Second Lieutenant Wilmer Fox.
The town is rich in Revolutionary history, being near Fort Duquesne. Braddock and his men passed through town, marching out the street now known as Braddock Road avenue, and giving his men water at a spring near Eagle street.

The first company armory to be erected in the state was built for Company E, which, on account of its senior commander, the late Dr. J. A. Lutz, for years held first place in the Tenth Regiment.

Benjamin Kidder Dies.

The following officers were elected for the coming year: President, L. F. Bingham; Vice President, J. J. Burkholder; Treasurer, Blanche Galley; Secretary, Morris M. Pignatelli. Following the banquet 100 persons attended the dance in the Bank and Trust assembly rooms.

Back in Hospital.
Edward Mull of the East End, who some time ago suffered a fracture to both legs and was a patient in the Memorial hospital, has been taken back to the hospital for treatment, after being discharged.

Over fifty years ago a young physician practiced widely in a rural district and became famous for his uniform success in the curing of disease. This was Dr. Pierce, who afterwards established himself in Buffalo, N. Y., and placed one of his prescriptions, which he called "Golden Medical Discovery," in the drug stores of the United States so that the public could easily obtain this very remarkable tonic, corrective and blood-maker. Dr. Pierce manufactured this "Discovery" from roots and barks—a corrective remedy, the ingredients of which nature had put in the fields and forests, for keeping us healthy. Few folks or families now living have not at some time or other used this "Golden Medical Discovery" for the stomach, liver and heart. Over twenty-four million bottles of this tonic and blood remedy have been sold in this country.

ANOTHER TRIUMPH FOR AUTO

Southwest's Most Dreaded Spot, Death Valley, Has Been Made Safe for Travelers.

Death valley, once the terror of the traveler in the Southwest and the last resting place of many early-day prospectors, is being made safe for travel both day and night.
This erstwhile barrier to human progress has been conquered by the automobile. Its trackless waste of sand has been sign-posted and its hidden water holes marked by Uncle Sam. Not content with merely making the desert easy to cross for travelers in daylight, the Automobile Club of Southern California is going farther and is placing signs in such manner that the rays of the headlights from passing machines will fall upon them and guide the night tourist as safely and surely as the day traveler.
The Automobile club also will sign-post all lateral routes of the famous Death valley district. Included in the sign posting being done will be a complete set of road signs directing tourists to picturesque Palm canyon, on the edge of the desert—one of the most unique spots in the world.
This oasis in the sandy wastes is to be made a national monument by the government. Its distinctive feature is the presence of ancient palms of weird beauty, standing in straight rows, apparently planted by the hand of man, but antedating history of the first human beings in this section.

NOT ALL DUE TO COMEDIAN

Part of Laughable Entertainment Was Being Furnished by Original Tenants of Barn.

Speaker Sweet said the other day in the New York state legislature at Albany:
"Recalling an incident gets a lot of newspaper space. It does not necessarily mean that he is a great man. Newspaper space may mean something else. It reminds me of a story.
"A rich man hired a comedian to entertain the workers on his estate one evening. The entertainment was engaged in the barn, and it went well, almost too well. The comedian, in fact, had hardly got under way when the barn began to shake with shouts of laughter. Soon the laughter became so uproarious that the rich man rose and said:
"Friends, I know how difficult it is to restrain our mirth when Mr. Backchat is on the stage, but really, you know, if we don't hold ourselves in just a little the performance will hardly be over by midnight."
"Then a burly plowman rose in his turn.
"Excuse me, boss," he said; "it ain't Mr. Backchat we're laughin' at, but somebody left the door open and all the pigs have got in, and they're really pushin' us off our seats."

Blue-Jay Ways.
Last spring a pair of blue jays nested in the crotch of a maple just below my study window. What a time they had of nest building! The female insisted on building in a crotch below, while the male thought a crotch higher up afforded a more advantageous location. They talked and scolded, building first in one place then in the other. In the end the female had her way, and the makeshift bunch of twigs and brush was collected. The birds were silent for weeks, tending strictly to family cares; the half of which the male bird assumed without a murmur or complaint. All summer long they were silent, but toward fall they joined their voices with those of the other jays in the neighborhood. It was a new sound on blue jay methods, and hereafter I shall regard the birds with a wee bit more appreciation.—Christian Science Monitor.

Candidly Defined.
"What is your idea of a free government?"
"A free government," said the bolshevist, "is one that offers no opposition to our efforts to kick it to pieces and start something under our exclusive control."

Somnolence.
"A socialist is, after all, something of a dreamer."
"Maybe he is. If so, he's one of those dreamers who talk in their sleep and make everyone else waken and nervous."

INDEPENDENTS ANNEX ANOTHER, DEFEATING MURDOCH TOSSERS

Work of Herrod Largely Responsible For Victory.

MAYER LOSES A FINGER

Ralph Herrod's work on the slab, together with his hard and timely hitting, was too much for the Wilkes-Barre Murdochs at Fayette Field Saturday and the visitors went down to defeat before the patched up Independents by a 5 to 1 score.

Herrod should have had a shut-out to his credit. Not a run was earned by him, errors being responsible for every run scored by the visitors.

Three of the nine hits registered against him were decidedly lucky. The John McKeasporter was there with the hit which, incidentally, beat of his the bagger being solid smashes and the resulting in runs.

Connellsville began the game with a crippled team in the field. Moody, Gelsie and Haggerty being at bat. Their places were well taken care of by Labiak and Fisher throughout the game and by Miller until an accident forced him to retire in the fourth inning.

The Murdochs' first run came early and was a gift. With two down, Kinselman hit one to Frazier, which took a nasty hop and got away from him. Kinselman stole second and Bell hit a sharp single to left, but first baseman "Little" Smiley prevented a run. Frazier made a mess of May's bopper, and Kinselman came across. The locals tied it up in their half. Fisher walked. Francis failed to bunt and then switched the play to the hit and run which worked to perfection. Fisher going all the way to third on Chip's wallop to middle and then taking second on the throw.

Stank then let one go away from him and Fisher scored. This was very fortunate. McKeasporter whiffed the next three batters.

Things again began to happen in the third. Gaskill hit one over second base which Fisher made a great stop but couldn't get it to first in time to retire the runner. Korber put Gaskill up a notch with a sacrifice, which Herrod fumbled. Kinselman sacrificed a solid one to left center and Gaskill rambled over the pan.

Things looked equally with two on, but Baker captured Bell's fly and Labiak at up Jimmie's hard drive and cut him off with a pretty peg.

The following frame was featured by one of the most peculiar accidents ever seen on a local ball field. Stanks had been hit by a pitched ball and took first. Herrod pegged to "Saucer" Miller to get Stanks dapping and the latter slid back into the bag head first.

The peg was low and "Saucer" stopped it with his bare hand, the ball striking his second finger directly into Stank's spikes, cutting it off at the first joint almost as cleanly as a chisel could have done. The joint hanging by only a fragment of skin. After a temporary bandage had been applied by Dr. Ues, Miller was taken into town in a car and had his wound dressed, after which he returned immediately to the ball park in his uniform and witnessed the remainder of the contest. Eddie Duggan took Miller's place and got a big hand the first time he came up to bat. Ed responded with a drive that looked good for extra bases, but Kinselman robbed him by a swell.

The Independents took the lead immediately after this. Smiley was hit by a pitched ball. Labiak drove a nice single to left. Baker forced Sam a moment later, but Smiley reached third. Jones hit a slow one to Gaskill which he would have beaten out in any case, but Gaskill's peg went pretty near to Dawson and two runs out in the first and he shipped it to deep left for two sacks, scoring Jones and putting the home crowd two to the good.

Jones came near spilling the beans in the sixth. After two singles and a sacrifice had put Mayer on third and Gunnigle on second, Jones tried to catch Mayer off the bag. This was bad baseball, as Swank can't hit a curve ball with a bad aim and that was all Herrod was feeding him, and the pitcher was coming up next. But to make it worse the home was wild and both men scored before Labiak could recover the ball. The tie did not last long, however, as the Independents got what proved to be the winning count in their half. Herrod went after the first one. The ball fled to the middle field fence and Herrod pulled up at second. Fisher beat out a bunt and put Herrod on third. Francis fled to Bell and Fisher was caught. Bell to Gunnigle. Gene Frazier got hold of one and poked it out in the wake of Herrod's blow, the latter scoring.

Nothing was doing in the eighth but in the ninth the visitors came near tying it up. Aaron was sent in to hit for Korber who was up there with two strikes on him and responded by putting a wicked liner to right center. Ross was then substituted for Aaron. Kinselman whacked out a double but that fielding by Francis and Frazier held Ross on third and Herrod ended the agony by whiffing Bell.

Sam Labiak made his first appearance in a Connellsville uniform and his work was high class. "Smolik" had three clean singles and played a neat-up game in the field.

Next Saturday the Independents play the fast Jeannette team.

BASEBALL CHIRPS.
So strange, the better baseball the club offers the patrons of the games the less they care for it. The attendance fell below the mark again Saturday.

Connellsville has a superb ball club. A scout of the Blue Ridge league came here from Martinsburg on Saturday to look over some of our players with the intention of winning them away from the club.

Although the "hammer" was working over-time during the past week, regarding the game with the Murdochs, through the report that the locals could not get along without Moody and Gelsie in the line-up, that the game would be canceled and what not, the game proved that there is always another player who can fill in with the same class of playing and assist in defeating the pick of the Pittsburg district.

Manager Young of the Murdochs informed several fans that the Independents could go through the best of the Independent teams of his district. When told that the team was quickly assembled due to the withdrawal of a couple players, he said: "If you call that a scrub team I'm glad I was not called upon to play what you may term your regular team."

Well even though the home folks don't want to see their town with a first-class team, other cities are wiring and writing the management to bring the team to their cities. And what is more, they are willing to pay a handsome guarantee for the privilege of seeing a real ball team play.

OWENSDALE HAS TEAM.
On June 23 the Owensdale Stickel miners organized a first-class baseball team and would like to hear from any first-class teams. Call Stickel office at Owensdale over Tri-State or write to Manager Wade King, Owensdale.

FLORENCE WINS.
The Florence mine team defeated the Star Junction Stars on the former's grounds Thursday by a score of 5 to 1.

RAINEY DOWNS OWENSDALE.
The Raineytown Tigers journeyed to Owensdale Thursday and defeated the team of that place by a score of 6 to 1.

WAVERLY

Pitcher Eddie Cornier of the Cincinnati Reds, has jumped the club for independent ball.

Arnon Ward is a Jewel. He has been fielding brilliantly and his batting has been lumsome.

A new umpire in the Three-I league is Bill Burnside, who hails from Portland, Ore., originally.

Nicholson is the only member of the Pittsburgh Pirates traveling in the select circle of heavy smokers.

The Boston Red Sox have a new pitching prospect named Kenneth Hilday, who hails from Pawtucket.

The Cleveland club has released Otis Lammuth to Akron and turned Tim Marchison over to New Orleans.

Tim Hendryx, former Louisville slugger, is upholding his reputation as a hitter by leading the Red Sox in batting.

Since joining the Brooklyn team Pitcher Babe Marquardt has defeated his former teammates the Giants, 11 times in 14 starts.

Brooklyn has a fine string of pitchers and all of the other clubs are trying to get Robble to let go of one or two of his twirlers.

Al Schacht, who was considered a sort of a joke proposition for several years, seems to have finally convinced people he can pitch.

Looks as though the Cards were right in refusing that bag of gold for Roger Hornsby. The infielder is top plug the older client.

Walter Doherty's 41 patents in the Beave-Brooklyn 26-inning tie game shows that the Boston first baseman was a busy performer.

After watching Babe Ruth in action, Kid Gleason of the Sox thinks Battering Babe will better his last year's home run mark of 29.

Manager Bill McCorry of the Albany team sets the pace for his players at bat. He has been slugging the ball for an average way above .300.

The Giants sorely miss the fine hitting of Frank Frisch. He was leading his teammates with a batting mark of .304 when stricken with appendicitis.

Bert Gallin, who now goes to the Phillies by the walrus route, has been in the majors for seven years. He first broke in with Washington in 1913.

Before the season opened Joe Jackson of the White Sox said he intended to lead the league in batting this year, and Joseph is certainly trying to make good.

Trade Fashert is the oldest active outfielder in the major leagues, being thirty-seven years of age, but he goes along with all the vim and agility of youth.

Tris Speaker, the Cleveland manager, has made a great comeback with the slick this season. Last season was an off year in hitting for the Indians' pilot.

By a coincidence it was Joe Ossacher who pitched for the Phillies in the 20-inning, 9-9-run tie between the Phillies and Brooklyn in 1919. In that game he was opposed by Grimes.

Garry Hermann wants it known that the Reds' new pennant is the real thing. Two hundred and fifty yards of Government standard wool were used. It is 24 feet long and 12 feet wide.

DUNBAR, June 26.—If Lowell had drifted through this June his famous pennons on the month of roses might have read something like this:

"What is so rare as a day in June,
When the sun is so bright and warm,
And the morning and rain at noon,
And the night at midnight, cold and clear,
And the stars so bright and clear?"

At least that's the way the young ladies, comprising the Keffer Kamping Club, who for the past two weeks held court in the sequestered rurality of Mill Run, look at it. They hadn't two days of solid sunshine during the entire time, and with the end of the week they turned their backs on muddy roads and mucky skies and returned to their homes. But they're a jolly squad and take all the fun out of their seclusion they can. They are not in their prime of Mill Run as a camping place and say it, during such weather as has characterized their sojourn, has more modern equipments than could be supposed, and they have enjoyed them to the full.

They had shower baths every day, or at least they could have had them had they gone out of the house. For perhaps more fashionable "bathing-house" and take all the fun out of their seclusion they can. They are not in their prime of Mill Run as a camping place and say it, during such weather as has characterized their
sojourn, has more modern equipments than could be supposed, and
they have enjoyed them to the full.

And the fishing—well, it may be as good as it has been reported. The girls tried it several times, but the weather has been so unfavorable that they could not catch a single fish.
They had a picnic on the 21st, but it was a failure, as the weather was just what they needed. The girls are now looking forward to the arrival of the boys, and the boys are looking forward to the arrival of the girls.

Corn colored Italian linen com-

Little covered buttons do up the go to make up the skirt also find an opportunity to provide pockets.

Hand-hemmed gives just the touch

Builds House Roof First.

The late William Myers used to tell that in Tennessee they always put up the roof of a proposed house first and then they could finish the house when it was too wet to work on the farm.
The convenience of this plan has been demonstrated by Clyde Weimer of Ferguson. Last year he built a home for his mother with whom he lives, and finding more room was needed made his plans. He put the roof, suspended on studding, in its proper place and then proceeded to build the house under the roof. The building is now about completed, and from looking at it no one who had not seen the work done would suppose that addition was roofed before it was built. These wet days Clyde has been working in the dry finishing his house.

"MENTAL MURDER"

Man Will Be Compelled to Face a Trial
on That Charge.

A man is to be tried at Morgantown, Ky., on the rare charge of "mental murder." It was announced by Mac Fowler, commonwealth attorney of Union county. The defendant is Robert Millstead, alias Thomas Logan, a paroled convict, who is said to have served time in an Ohio penitentiary.
The man is alleged to have driven to death, with fear as a weapon, Robert Morehead, a prominent Union county farmer, who committed suicide on December 7. The specific charge against Millstead is accomplice before the fact.

Attorney Fowler says he will seek to prove that Millstead impersonated a federal officer, causing Morehead to choose between death and disgrace which would come from the exposure of some deed of his of which Mill-stead had knowledge. Morehead made known that he would rather die than have his family disgraced. The case is the first of its kind ever reported in this section of the country and is attracting wide attention.

The Man Who Wasn't Himself

By ROBERT AMES
BENNET

(Copyright, by W. G. Chapman)

CHAPTER XIV.

Appearances Often Deceive.
When Clinton awakened from his heavy sleep he perceived Amy's note on the floor. Going to the speaking tube he called for Tillie. There was no response. He started toward the rear window, but on the way noticed his pajamas and went back to dress. Again he started toward the rear window, and again changed his purpose.

In the far corner, before the rose-covered summer-house, was a group of people. One of them was looking up at him. It was Amy, and she was gesturing to him. She did not wish him to be seen. The man was turning.

For several moments he stood at the window, his forehead galled in a troubled frown. Behind him sounded a shrilling footstep. He started nervously and spun about. Old Tillie stood in the middle of the room, her finger on her lip.

"What! It's you!" he exclaimed.

"How the devil—"

"Tillie!" she warned. "Miss Ellen's still downstairs. She'd run and tell her you're here. You just missed her. She's waiting for you at City Park."

"To go out for me? Who phoned?"

"The place. They seen you out at City Park and—"

"Saw me?"

"Yes; that's what they phoned Miss Amy. If it hadn't been for their making Mr. Bonum light out that way, he'd have had you. He's a detective."

"Detective? That's a lie. No!"

"Fact. You've heard Miss Amy tell him over the coal. My, but wasn't he mad! He'll come back madder from that wild goose chase. That's why I've come up to make your bed and clean up and tell you to get up into your old roomers' cave if he comes back. I'll let you know when. 'Steal of making the bed, guess I'll take the bedding down to air.'"

As he turned heading for the door of the bathroom, he caught a side glimpse of some one moving on the far side of the room. He faced angrily toward the new intruder and saw his own image in the big cheval glass on the opposite wall.

"Jove!" he muttered. "This won't do. Must pull myself together."

He went across to the mirror and stared at his reflection. The image of his face was the image of another face, smaller and less distinct—another image, yet his own face!

His eyes dilated with terror. He stood glaring at the second image, paralyzed with horror, powerless to move. It was his own face.

There were differences—no mistake, the color almost white, the outline more thin; yet it was his face as it might be after an illness. It could not be a double reflection in the glass, for it lacked the mistake—also the expression was absolutely different. Unlike the immobile terror of his first image, the ghostly second face was twisting with active fear. The mouth moved open.

"Inane!" he gasped. "It's a—"

He turned to the rear window, opened the shade and such with shaking, trembling hands, and crept out.

The image of another face—against the sill in the midst of the morning light and air.

Downstairs Amy and Ellen were waiting to see what he would do.

The doctor's face was white. The woman's face was red.

"My dear!" sobbed Ellen.

Amy, regardless of her own wet hair, ran in through the front door. But

Ginghams for Little Girls

When designers of children's clothes began making up little dresses of checked gingham in cheerful colors, and using organdy for collars, cuffs and sleeves, and in other decorative features, they hit upon the most successful idea of the present season. These little models have proved so universally pleasing and so pretty that new designs come out in the shops with each new display of children's clothes. The combination has been borrowed for older people, with the best results and now there is no age limit for organdy-trimmed checked gingham. It has a rival in plain chambray, or other plain dress cottons, in delicate colors, with which organdy is used in the same way. Both organdy and plain chambray help to make dresses of plaid gingham interesting.

An example of both the checked and plaid gingham, made up with accessories of white organdy, appears in the illustration above. They are simple and easy to make and suited to little girls from six or seven to twelve or thirteen years. The checked gingham is cut in one piece and plaited in at the waistline. A full or organdy, with narrow, hemstitched hem finishes the neck and three-quarter length sleeves and both are bound with a narrow, bias fold of the gingham. There are patch pockets of organdy with full across the top and a binding of gingham. An organdy sash is placed under the panel of gingham at the front of the waist. The panel is cut on the bias of the material and pointed at the bottom and there are small, flat pearl buttons at each side of it.

In the plaid gingham dress a plaited skirt is joined to an underbodice. The waist has its front extended below the waistline and bound with organdy, and it fastens with three large pearl buttons. Long sleeves are unusual in this year's dresses, but they appear in this little model, with organdy cuffs. The neck is finished with a collar that is plain like the cuffs.

The over-the-skirt blouse continues in favor.

Julia Rothbury

already the door, unlocked by Bonum, was opening to admit Dr. Kirkland. Mrs. Kirkland came in after her husband as Amy rushed to meet them with well-voiced eagerness.

"Doctor!" cried the girl. "You've come to tell us he has been found!"

"Sorry, sweetheart—not yet. But he has been seen. We went out to City Park and—"

"We found him in an indoor car," broke in Mrs. Kirkland. "We thought—"

"—Thought he might have come home," her husband completed the sentence.

"You're sure he wasn't, my dear?" breathlessly questioned the lady.

"Will—home?" exclaimed Amy.

"Why, Ellen and I have been right in by the telephone ever since Charlie rushed out to go to City Park. No, no, not upstairs! She's back here—" —Come into the library. You both look hot. I'll have Tillie bring lemonade."

Amy, who was nearest the parlor, heard a step behind her and glanced over her shoulder. "Oh!" she cried.

"Why did you come down? Goodness! you're pale!—that look!—You're ill!"

"Will!" screamed Ellen. Amy was recoiling, but the other girl advanced toward the dazed young man in the doorway, her arms impudently outstretched. "Dearest! forgive me, please, please forgive me! I was cruel, but I did not realize. Forgive me and give me your ring again, dearest!"

"My God!" groaned the young man. He put his hand to his head. "Is it all coming back again? That hallucination upstairs—now this!"

"It's—his voice too!" gasped Amy.

"It is because he is—in insane?"

"Nonsense!" boomed Dr. Kirkland. "He looks rational—only dazed. He has shaved."

"Ah! that is it!" agreed Mrs. Kirkland. "That accounts for—"

"That and the terrible strain of the night—and this change of clothes which he managed to get hold of," confirmed her husband. "My dear boy, why do you look as that way? Have no fear. I admit my mistake. You need not return to the sanatorium. I had known how it would affect you—"

The young man's face relaxed a line. "Not return, doctor? You really think it unnecessary?"

"Quite! quite! Never fear. You shall stay quietly at home, if I have to mortgage my house to secure your bail."

"My bail?" ejaculated the young man. "Surely the bank has not charged me with—"

"Have you forgotten that already?" pitifully broke in Ellen. "Dearest, can it be you have forgotten me too?"

"Forget you, darling?" he protested. "Never!" Shaking off his overwrought daze, he sprang to her with ardent eagerness and caught her to him in an impassioned embrace. "Ellen! darling! Ellen!" he cried. "To have you again after all these months! You are no hallucination—you are real! I feel your arms about my neck; your heart beats against mine!"

"Will, Will! my Will!" she ecstatically bubbled. "You, yourself—yourself! You've come back to me, your own real self!"

"To be sure—to be sure," affirmed her father. "This complete change of expression, manner, intonation—only solid proof of full restoration to his true personality."

"O-o-o-h! Is that it?" sighed Amy, but she continued to gaze at her restored brother with brows peaked and a troubled look in her brown eyes.

She burst into tears and ran to fling herself on the shoulder generously left free for her by Ellen. He met her with an affectionate kiss.

"There! This is better, isn't it?" he asked, squeezing her with the arm that was not about Ellen and putting her vigorously on his back.

"—You," she obediently agreed. "Of course you and Ellen—I'd never have believed I could be such a selfish pig!"

He laughed at the absurdity of the confession. "What? You funny little Toddler. Who was so anxious last year for me to be the lucky man?"

He kissed the blushing forehead of his blithely happy fiancée.

"I don't care," Amy sought to defend herself. "You've been jealous of Charlie. You know you have."

He frowned. "You've not encouraged that fellow! I warned him—"

"Don't worry," she interrupted. "Ellen has settled him."

"Ellen?" he queried.

"My dear boy!" interposed Mrs. Kirkland. "You are still leaving us out!"

"Never!" he gaily rejoined. "It's only that I've already got my arms full. If I had a third arm—and an extra hand to grip Doctor's!" He leaned back at them; but suddenly turned to cast an inquiring look around him, and demanded: "But where's Monney?"

"Why, you're still muddled," remarked Amy. "Don't you remember?"

His face twitched with apprehension. "Remember what? They refused to give me any letters! I've not heard a word all these fearful months! What is it? Has Monney—"

"No, no, dearest," Ellen reassured him. "She is all right!"

"Then why isn't she here?"

"But she has not yet returned from the Springs," replied Mrs. Kirkland. "She is down at the Springs!"

"Don't you remember?"

"My dear," said the physician, "you and the girls forget that he knows nothing of what has happened to his other personality, nothing whatever."

"Other personality?" sharply queried the young man. "What do you mean, Doctor?"

"Keep calm, my boy. It is a not unusual occurrence—nothing to worry about—a condition easily curable with proper treatment. You may find it difficult to believe, but ever since we met you at the station—"

"Met me? I didn't see you, I—"

"At your other personality," explained the physician.

"And took you home to dine with us," added his wife.

"You didn't remember even me," reproached Ellen.

"Nor me, when doctor brought you home," chimed in Amy.

He stared at Doctor Kirkland in consternation. "Devenso! You all talk as if—Devenso! more devenso, when I was so sure!"

"Now, now, my boy! there is nothing serious about your condition," replied the physician. "It is only that—"

"More devenso!" muttered the frightened young man. "It's all a dream—a dream—ever since I gave that attendant the slip—"

"More devenso!" blurted a jumble. Yet it seems—yes, I did take the Park Hill car. Then the park; then—but that's all—nothing at all! I was lying there in the old brick-yard pit, the blood trickling down my face, but my head clear—"

"Oh! you tell me hurt your head?" cried Ellen. "Let us see! Papa, look at it!"

"But it's nothing, nothing at all, darling," replied her lover. "Or rather, it's everything—the luckiest bump that ever happened. I don't know, but it must have jarred loose something in my brain. Ever since I came to, my head has been as clear as crystal. The very first moment I recognized the pit as the place in which—"

"Bump!—bump!" boomed Doctor Kirkland. "Tosses my diagnosis: functional lesion, or possibly a blood clot—physical shock. My boy, you're all right now—nothing to fear. All that is past—your amnesia, dissociation, this secondary personality that has caused you to fail to recognize us all these days."

"But I have not failed to recognize you. I know you all at once!"

"Why, Will," replied Amy. "Don't you really remember? You've been with us ever since two evenings before last."

CONSERVATION OF NATURAL GAS SOUGHT BY NEW REGULATION

Prepared By Bureau of Mines and National Committee of Gas Association.

ALL WASTE TO BE CUT OUT

Details of Methods by Which Economy in Consumption Can Be Secured Wherever Natural Gas Is Used for Domestic or Industrial Purposes.

In order that the best possible use may be made of the remaining supply of rapidly wasting natural gas in this country, the National Committee on Natural Gas Conservation, after a series of meetings with the Bureau of Mines, has issued for the guidance of the state utility commissions in which natural gas is used a series of suggestions that, if followed, may at least reduce the severity of the shortages in different parts of the United States, and prolong the supply.

The suggestions as far as they relate to the work of the public utility commissions and the consumers of natural gas are as follows:

That the state utility commissions of each state in which natural gas is used request every natural gas company in their respective states to submit to them a report on or before October 1, 1926, indicating the extent to which natural gas is supplied for industrial as well as for domestic purposes; stating in detail what recommendations in operating and financial conditions would be necessary or desirable to enable the companies to conserve their supply of natural gas for domestic use, adding such additional data as the individual company thinks wise to make.

That where manufactured gas stoves are available for natural gas, they be used, since a proper adjustment of a more satisfactory service will result therefrom.

That the Bureau of Mines be asked to turn over to this committee all data it may have on the carbon black industry with the view and purpose of helping this committee to determine what part of natural gas now used to manufacture carbon black could be diverted into public utility lines.

That this committee recommend that the state authorities in the natural gas states take immediate steps to eliminate all unnecessary use of flammable gas.

That properly constructed stoves, gas, be used for manufactured gas, and with open or grid tops and with proper burners set about one and one-quarter inches from bottom of vessel to be used, more satisfaction being given to the consumer. That the National Gas Association of America take action to discourage the use of gas stoves for natural gas which do not comply with above recommendations.

That the public utilities commission in every state where natural gas is used be requested to require every natural gas company within their respective states to formulate and put into effect by October 1, 1926, reasonable rules and regulations for approval by the state public utility commission, requiring that all natural gas be used in an efficient and economical manner with proper appliances, and that on the failure of any person to comply with such reasonable rules and regulations, within a reasonable time, service to be discontinued until such rules are complied with, and we recommend that in eliminating such rules and regulations for the elimination of waste from the various gas companies give careful consideration to the following standards of waste elimination and adopt the same as far as practicable.

Proper adjustment of appliances, resulting in good combustion.

Burners in gas stoves to be not more than one and one-quarter inches from the cooking vessel.

Use only grid tops, or skeleton tops, on cooking stoves.

Discard all heating furnaces having an efficiency of less than 75 per cent. This will eliminate practically all coal furnaces and stoves converted for use of gas.

No hot water heater giving an efficiency of less than 75 per cent should be used.

Use tank heaters—boilers with burners underneath, without jacketing and a gas connection.

All daylight burning of lamps or gas stoves should be prohibited.

That we recommend that the state public utility commission in each state require natural gas be used for domestic purposes in their respective states to file with their respective commissions a copy of the rules and regulations, adopted by the company, and approved by the state public utility commission within 30 days after October 1, 1926, and require each company to enforce such rules and regulations as far as practicable.

That we require each gas company to have an inspection of appliances and stoves as soon after the said rules and regulations are put in force as possible, and keep a complete record of such inspection and subsequent recommendations, in order to determine to what extent the consumers are complying with said rules and regulations.

That in the interest of improving the quality of the service to the public, giving suitable cooking service during the inevitable peak load low pressure in cold weather, and conserving the supply of natural gas, that the state authorities ask each natural gas company to show its patrons how they can use low pressure natural gas stoves can be raised, and that such stoves can be properly adjusted for low pressure gas service.
